DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4,10-13,15-18,20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Oeda (U.S. Patent No. 4,291,018).

Oeda teaches a lipstick composition and a method of making the lipstick. Oeda teaches that the lipstick comprises a core containing one composition which is surrounded by a sheath consisting of another composition. The lipstick of Oeda (see Fig. 5), and the lipstick disclosed in the specification (see Fig.7) are equivalent. Oeda teaches that the lipstick composition has different colors, and a weight ratio of 1:1 which is equivalent to the lipstick core comprising at least about 50%. See column 9, lines 20-36.

The prior art meets the claims of the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 1615

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oeda (018) in view of the FR002759902A1 reference.

Oeda is applied above.

Oeda does not particularly teach an additional cosmetic material.

However, the '902 reference teaches a lipstick comprising a core and a sheath having different compositions, wherein the core comprises ceramides, and the sheath contains pigments to confer the desired colour to the lips, and an aloe extract. The reference also teaches that the core may additionally contain essential wax of rose geranium, as well as vitamins A and E.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the composition of Oeda to include an additional cosmetic material taught by the French reference, with the expectation of obtaining a lipstick composition which comprises a core and a sheath having different compositions, which is useful for the purpose of providing good spreadability, gloss, color and adheres to the lips without feathering.
